LIFE INSURANCE. No. 14, Exchange Street, PORTLAND. LITTLE & BROTHER are Agents for the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York. In this Company the whole of the net profits are divided personally among the insured, and the amount is endorsed on the Policy, and the whole amount is payable on the death of the party to his or her representatives, thus combining the advantages of a Saving Institution of the best kind with Life Insurance, by which those who are not wealthy may provide for their families, and capitalists find a safe and profitable investment. The advantages of such insurance to the individual, to his family and to the community, are obvious. A person 30 years of age, by paying $131 annually, may secure $100 to his family should he die within the year, and one in his 40th year may do the same by paying $169. A young man 21 years of age, without capital, by paying $340 may obtain a Policy for $1000 for 1 year, and thereby procure means to begin business, purchase tools or a library, or complete an education. We have already made Policies for such purposes. A creditor may give himself additional security for a debt due him by insuring on a debtor's life. In England where investments pay not over 34 per cent per annum, the profits to assured have been very great, as the following will show, viz. a person at the age of 30 effected insurance on his life for $1000, at the expiration of 30 years by the death of the insured, the accumulated profits together with the sum insured, gave his heirs about $3000. In this Company the investments (already large) are now paying 6 per cent, and the probabilities that the results with this office will be equally favorable, if not more so. No person having a family who is able to save $1.00 per month, should delay a moment, to obtain a Policy at this office. Any information that may be desired, can be obtained by calling on the subscribers. June 23, 1844. 6w

POLITICAL. From The Tribune A Shout for the Whigs. (As sung by the Broome County Clay Minstrels.) BY JOSEPH BOUGHTON.

TUNE—"The Brave Old Oak." A shout for the Whigs, the true, bold Whigs, Who are firm in their strong array— Here's a cheer and a toast to the Patriot's boast, To our gallant and staunch Harry Clay There is that in his name, which the trumpet of Fame Shall echo with thundering blast, While the mantle of Wo will alight on the foe, And their hopes to oblivion cast.

CHORUS. Then shout for the Whigs, the true, bold Whigs, Whose hearts are ready and strong, And long shout they, while their champion, Clay, Shall live in his Country's song. When Britain fierce tried, in her insolent pride, To humble the sons of the Free, And her insults flung our Sailors among, Who boasted our flag on the sea— Like a trumpet-call, in the Congress hall, The voice of our Clay rang far; Midst the Country's alarms, it shouted 'To arms! Arm! arm for the righteous War!'

When Columbia's brave met the foe on the wave, And grappled them fiercely on land, With a heart glowing warm, Harry Clay's was the arm, That strengthened the Patriot Band. With life-blood anew, our young Eagle flew, Side by side with the Stripe and the Star, And Peace, smiling, came through that thrice-honored name, In the wake of proud Victory's car.

When the bustling South, with clamorous mouth, The notes of Disunion sang— When, with treason rife, Civil Discord's knife, O'er the nation impending hung— His voice it was then, that re-echoed again, And stifled the direful alarm— While his masterly grip seized the helm of our Ship, And she bravely outrode the storm.

Now the welkin that rings, and the vessel that springs O'er the foam-crested ocean away, The tidings proclaim, that from Georgia to Maine, The People are rousing for Clay. His star flashes bright, while the clouds of night O'ersadow his foes with grief— Then join in his throng, with a shout and a song, And hail him your future Chief.

Let the sons of the soil, and the workmen that toil, Rich blessings invoke on his head, For his is the hand, which over the land The shield of Protection spread. Let his banner outling, and each patriot cling To the cause of his Country oppressed; Let a chorus resound, through the nation around, Of praise to the Son of the West.

CHORUS. With a shout for the Whigs, the true, bold Whigs, Whose hearts are ready and strong— And long shout they, while their President, Clay, Shall live in his Country's song Binghamton, July, 1844.

Ohio Moving. On the Fourth of July—the noble and stern whigs of Ohio met in vast numbers at Jefferson to observe the Sabbath of the Patriots and to advance the wing cause, by renewing their vows upon the altar of Liberty, and lighting their torches once more at the council fire of their fathers. The occasion was one of thrilling interest, worthy the actors and the cause. The following letter was received and read to those assembled:

Letter from Cassius M. Clay. LEXINGTON, Ky. June 21, 1844. GENTLEMEN: I have just received your letter of the 16th instant, inviting me to attend a meeting of the Whigs of Ashland County on the 4th day of July next. I regret that my engagements, among which is an appointment on my part to command the volunteer uniform troops of this State, to be encamped on that day, will prevent my acceptance of your complimentary invitation.

I had the honor to be a member of the Hartford National Convention of 1840; I well remember the deep emotions which pervaded that noble band of the Conscript Fathers of the republic, among whom few of my age had the honor to sit. The monstrous and frequent usurpations of Andrew Jackson had produced in the minds of an observant man, who loved Republicanism, the most painful forebodings of an absolute loss of liberty. It was, therefore, no miserable party trick, which impelled us to separate without a formal manifesto of Whig policy, but an all-absorbing love of liberty and noble resistance to tyranny swallowed up the many subjects of material and economical interests, about which we might have differed, and all acquiesced in the absorbing necessity of a concentrated effort to revive in the hearts of the people, the slumbering fires of '76. It was then, that we were not only because they parted with their long tried friend and leader, H. Clay, as they then supposed, forever, unreluctant for the gallant services of 30 years' devotion to his country, but because there arose in the bosoms of all then present a generous sense of mutual sacrifice, devotion to country and to freedom which could not but display itself in that terrible manifestation of sincerity, when manly and proud spirits are not ashamed to weep. From that moment, when many had almost despaired of the Republic, a new and irresistible armor was spread through the Wing ranks of the Republic which resulted in the ever-memorable triumph of the Patriot Harrison.

I know not how it may be with you, men of Ohio, but in my bosom the same emotions are yet living not at all dimmed by time or the relative position of our cause with regard to the preservation of this great Commonwealth. If the vital faith in the capability of men for self-government, be not a Whig doctrine, then I am no Whig. If equality of suffrage, of political privilege and social position, dependent solely upon virtue and talent, be not Whig principles, then am I no Whig. In a word, if liberty, true, virtuous, constitutional liberty be not the basis of a Whig party, then am I no Whig. It is this vital and living principle of the Whiggery of '76, which next to God is the object of my perpetual adoration, that gives me that position, which I grieve to say induces you now to call upon me to be with you. If I have any power, it is not the power of genius, of learning, far less of factitious position. If I am known to you at all, it is because of the power of principle. I cannot monopolize it—it is mine—it is yours—it belongs to our country—to all mankind. While I do not underrate the subordinate projects of Whig policy, I prefer to linger upon the great and eternal lines of separation between the parties—the one advocates law—the other anarchy—the one appeals to reason and precedent—the other to prejudice and passion—the one builds up—the other pulls down—the one is for advancement in comfort and civilization, by creating wealth—the other for self-indulgence on the proceeds of the labor of others already expended—the one for the honest distribution of the proceeds of labor by governmental action—the other for spoils by the monopoly of office. The one is conservative—the other revolutionary. The Whigs for liberty—the Democracy for slavery!

Such is the creed of the Whig party, in which I have grown to manhood—it will do to live by—with a brotherhood as expansive as the race of men, it knows no distinction of nation, tongue, or color—universal in its principles as the Christian Religion itself, it has followed hard in its footsteps, and when rightly combined, they are the basis of the highest moral, physical and mental well-being of which civilization is capable—the evolution of all those conditions which are concentrated in the single phrase—human happiness.

Let us then, fellow-Whigs, of Ohio, look to that in our success in 1844, which I clearly foresee, we obtain no barren triumph. Whilst we avoid war, rapine and dishonor, by repudiating Texas and its reckless adherents; whilst we purify the administration of the Government; restore a sound currency and put the State in a condition to wipe off that stain of repudiation and strengthen the bonds of constitutional law, let us also give "our vote and our influence on all proper occasions" to vindicate the Declaration of Independence and restore our good name among nations by making eternal war upon slavery, whether it come from the executive or the constituent, till "liberty and union" shall pervade the whole land.

Yours, truly, C. M. CLAY

Reasons Why James K. Polk Ought to be President. 1st. Because he was presented by a grand jury of Sevier county, in his own State, as a nuisance, for neglect of his official duty as Gov. and for conduct derogatory to the dignity of the office, and to the character of a gentleman. 2d. Because he has twice put himself before the electors of his State as a candidate for Gov. (after having been once tried,) and has been most scandalously beaten—for the same cause that induced a grand jury of his country to present him, not as a common, but an uncommon nuisance, and a dishonor to the station he occupied.

3d. Because, like Gen Jackson, he is a persecuted man, and has had his nose pulled in a quarrel.

4th. Because, when his nose was soundly pulled as a reward for provocation given, he meekly pocketed the insult.

5th. Because he goes with John C. Calhoun for nullification and the immediate annexation of Texas, and is opposed to any measures for the encouragement of American manufactures and American labor and industry. [Ypsilanti (Mich) Sentinel.]

We will add another. 6th. Mainly and lastly, because his grandfather was a Tory of the Revolution.

Another Witness against Polk. The Aurora Clay Club, Cayuga Co. assembled in strength on Tuesday evening at the Aurora House; Ashland Hall, their Head Quarters, having been found too small to accommodate the numbers who will throng together when the bugle is sounded.

The meeting was addressed by Mr Spencer of Albany, a gentleman who in 1840 was an able and influential advocate of the re-election of Mr Van Buren. But he could not, as a man of patriotism and sound sense, be any longer chained to the Free-Trade Texas Car of Polk, and he has accordingly left his old associates, and is now doing right good service in the cause of Harry Clay.

Here is no paper convert, fabricated for the occasion, manufactured for the purpose of sustaining an empty game of brag, but a living carter in the scene—with strong and manly sense, indomitable courage, pungent and forcible eloquence. His speech was a glorious one, and at the end, he was received with hearty good will into the fellowship of the Club. So we go—The Locos have all the sham converts, the Whigs the real ones. [N. Y. Tribune.]

The London papers announce that the correspondence of Edmund Burke, running from 1774 to 1797, (the year of his decease,) will shortly be published, with explanatory notes. This will be a work of extraordinary interest and value, possibly it may include his letters to and from the patriot leaders of the American colonies during the period that preceded the Lexington battle. Burke for several years was regarded as one of the firmest friends of the colonies. His name is often found among the regular toasts given on public occasions in the newspapers.

The Locomotives, on Wednesday, called upon one of their old friends, an exceedingly respectable citizen and distinguished mechanic, with a request that he would subscribe towards paying the expenses of their excursion. "Go with me into the yard," said he. They followed him— "There, do you see that pole?" said he, pointing to a tall standard. "Yes," said they. "Well, I shall spread a flag at its top with the names of CLAY and FRANKLIN. I hope this is a sufficient answer to your solicitations—L. v. v. ville Jour.

WHIG MASS MEETINGS.

The Whig State Committee recommend the following times for holding MASS MEETINGS in the several Congressional Districts and Counties in the State, at which it is intended MR EVANS and such other distinguished speakers as can be had, will be present and address the People.

LINCOLN, August 1
YORK, August 6
OXFORD, August 9
KENNEBEC & FRANKLIN, August 13, at Readfield
SOMERSET & WALDO August 16
PENOBSCOT & PISCATAQUIS, August 20, at Bangor
WASHINGTON & HANCOCK, August 22, at Cherryfield
KENNEBEC, August 14 at Waterville
It is desirable to have the County and Congressional Conventions so as not to have their interests one with another

The Ellsworth Clay Club have been improving the present week, the Court being in session there, in holding meetings of the Club. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings the Congregational meeting house was well filled with males and females, addresses were made by several gentlemen, excellent songs sung, and the best feeling prevailed. The Whigs of the Seventh District have seen much hard service and are bright and active and no part of their duty we feel assured will be neglected.

The noble efforts that are being made by the Whigs of Ellsworth should inspire the Whigs of Castine, Bucksport and other towns on the western border of that district. The indications we have from various parts of the State satisfy us that if the Whigs in all our towns and villages will engage in the work with a zeal corresponding to the magnitude and importance of the issues involved in the election they will have the high satisfaction of having contributed honor to the strength and glory of the victory. Active discussion, animated meetings, thorough determination, zealous efforts, public and private addresses, the circulation of correct political intelligence, these are the instruments needed for carrying on the campaign and with a proper use of these throughout the State, the good cause of sound political principles and a wise and fostering State policy will be secured to the people of Maine. Earnest and efficient work now, will save much subsequent labor. The right thing can be done in the right time now if the Whigs of Maine unitedly engage in the work. Our opponents are doing all they can—they work hard but they have a bad cause, and although they mean to make the best of it yet if the Whigs go out boldly and declare their principles and get the people to understand them—all will be well.

It is cheering to observe the course of public feeling in the West and the South in favor of safe whig measures and the election of Henry Clay. The western papers come freighted with animation and enthusiasm, showing that the whole mass of the people, old and young, men and women, are awake, as in the stern old revolutionary times, to the interests of the country. Every whig feels that he has a double duty to perform and faith and strength to do it. All the friends of the beloved and now sainted Harrison feel they owe a debt of gratitude to Henry Clay in the noble part he took in behalf of the war worn soldier and their cherished friend, and they mean to discharge that whole debt with interest. The friends of Henry Clay and whig principles know that now is the favored moment to reward the Patriot and to secure correct political principles and a wise policy in the measures of the government, and they feel they are doing double work. This spirit animates the great West.

An Iron Steam Tug Boat is building for Boston Harbor, the first of the kind in Massachusetts.

The National Intelligencer of Saturday contains certain official papers relating to our concerns with Mexico, which were sent to the Senate by the President of the United States upon a call made by that body, towards the close of the late session of Congress. The documents consist of letters which passed between General Thompson, our Minister at Mexico, and M. De Bucanegra, Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations. The correspondence relates to an order of the Mexican Government of the date of July 14th, addressed to the Governor of the California, directed him to expel all natives of the United States, from his department. A similar order was sent to three other departments. The result of the correspondence and of General Thompson's firm stand and resolute behavior, was that the Mexican Government receded from its position, and so modified the order as to make it refer only to disorderly foreigners and not to citizens of the United States particularly. General Thompson shows himself in his correspondence, to be a man of decision and energy, as well as sensitively mindful of the honor and interests of his country.

Many of our friends who attended the Whig State Convention at Augusta will remember with pleasure Col McKenny with his fine white head, and his witty speeches. The Augusta Age has made several serious charges against his character, political and moral, and accused him of being a renegade Democrat, of being turned out of the war department by Mr Poinsett for flagrant misconduct, of boasting that he had won nine thousand dollars at one sitting of cards, and of persuading Daniel Webster to endorse his paper to a large amount. The Col noticed these slanders in a spirited letter to the Portland Advertiser. He says he was always a Whig, had no connexion with the Government for several years before Mr Poinsett came into it; never won or lost a cent at cards in his life, and does not even know how to play, and never boasted that he did; and never persuaded Mr Webster to endorse his paper to any amount at all. He says in conclusion—"I have directed a suit to be brought against the editor of the Age, so that before a jury of his peers, he may make good his charges, or, failing to do so, bear upon his front, through life, the mark of a convicted, malignant libeller."

Several private letters received from various parts of the State mention important changes to the whig party. The policy of protecting the labor of our own country against the labor of Europe where the capitalists experiment upon laborers to ascertain how much they can produce and how little consume; the policy of having the power of the government wisely directed to encourage the business and aid the prosperity of the people, is found to be the true idea of a true republican government established by the people for the people. No wonder then that when sober minded men, find a party disposed to neglect this important work and interest itself only upon the acquisition of territory, assuming foreign debts and legislating to please foreign capitalists and foreign cabinets, such men turn about and declare they will not sanction by their votes such neglect of appropriate duties on the one hand, and such strange and reckless work on the other.

The Polk politicians of South Carolina are kicking their heels up quite high about this time on the subject of the annexation of Texas. The Brigadier General of the Charleston Militia has recently been addressing his troops on the importance of Texas to the South and her institutions until they have at length resolved that it would be more for the interest of the Southern States to stand out of the Union with Texas than in the Union without her. This is the tone and spirit of the Polk party in the South and they fearlessly avow these sentiments there. It should cease to be a wonder that the sober part of the loco party have no stomach for such doctrines or such an administration of affairs as must be inflicted upon the country should James K. Polk be elected. He is pledged soul and body to this policy and the men who have nominated him will have his ear and guide his course.

The good Whig Women of Portland with highly creditable enthusiasm are preparing a rich Prize Banner to be presented to the Whigs of the town which shall send the largest representation to the Cumberland Mass Convention to be held in that city on the seventh day of August. That convention will be one of great interest on account of the deep interest which the Whigs of Cumberland feel in the cause, the numerous throng that will be present and the distinguished speakers that will address the convention.

We should not like to urge the women of our city to get up a Banner because those of Portland have, but if they should undertake it we know they would beat all other efforts of the kind wherever undertaken.

The loco editors in this State declare that in no possible contingency can the electoral vote fail to be given for Mr Polk. Even if the people do not vote in sufficient numbers on that ticket to give them a majority or even a plurality of votes, the leaders have fixed it all in order for the Governor to call the legislature together and let them do the voting for the people. It is a little curious however to notice how these same editors cuddle over the name of any of the old conservatives who left their party for a brief period and voted for Harrison, but immediately returned to their party again. These names are brought up as something new, and something grand and are made to appear as greatly strengthening their cause in a State of which they say they are so very sure.

Fourth Dist.—The following returns from the fourth Congressional District are all that have reached us. Louis Bourdelon is the Whig candidate, Isaac E Morse the Loco candidate.

	Bordelon	Morse
Caddo	185	155
Natchitoches	478	489
Rapides	328	488
Claiborne	—	189 maj
St Landry	256	—
St Marys	117	—
	1364	1321

There are ten or twelve parishes yet to be heard from.

In the House of Representatives, the Whigs have elected 29, and the Locos 23, eight members to be heard from, viz 2 from St Martin, 1 from Catahoula, 1 from Caddo and De Soto, 2 from the district of Ouachita, Caldwell and Union, and 2 from Lafayette.

The run will be close, and there is more or less doubt in each case as to the result.

Convention.—The Polkians elect 21 Whigs and 34 Locos, as far as heard from. One of the latter Dr Combs, of East Baton Rouge has since deceased.

Boy killed by Lightning.

On Wednesday the 9th inst William Hutchings aged 14 years son of Jonathan Hutchings of Carmel was instantly killed by lightning in his father's house. He was standing at a window near the head of the stairs in company with another boy and both were thrown to the foot of the stairs. The boy in company was stunned but recovered in a short time. The house was struck in two places and considerably injured, no other persons were hurt although there were sixteen in the house.

The National Intelligencer and many other Whig papers come to us freighted with the names of men of the right character who have renounced the loco party for its adhesion to free trade theories and its subservience to the plotting intrigues and dictatorial spirit of southern disunionists and Texas scrip holders. If we should attempt to copy these names and particularly the cogent reasons many of them give for the change, our columns would be filled week after week to the exclusion of everything else. The good work goes bravely onward. Light is breaking. The triumph of correct principles and good government approaches.

Mr. Bugbee has laid upon our table the August number of Graham's Magazine. It is a beautiful and a refreshing number. Good reader! would you enjoy an afternoon in more than common delight with chatty and witty but not noisy companions, then buy a number of Graham and hide yourself in some pleasant nook, the thing is did.

Straight Outs.

The Canton (Ohio) Repository of the 4th inst, states that in two townships of that County (Stark) one hundred and fifty Democrats, who are in favor of the Tariff, and against the Polk doctrine of immediate annexation, have "come out," from the Locofoco party, and pledge themselves to vote for Clay and Frelinghuysen.

The Philadelphia Forum says that the right kind of spirit is abroad among the ladies of our land. It was remarked by a lady of Westchester borough, Pennsylvania, in reply to the chivalrous attacks of the Locofocos, that she would be proud to have half a dozen daughters to make a Clay banner, and half a dozen sons to march under it.

At a mass meeting of the Whigs of Oswego, N Y a few days ago, a banner was borne, on which was the following inscription—"In 1776 the Whigs caught Old Polk—In 1844 they'll catch the young one."

We have received a number of the Newburyport Courier, a large, well printed and thorough going Whig paper. It is an honor to the town in which it is published, and we trust its support may be equal to its merits.

The farmers in Lincoln county in this State obtain more than an average crop of hay the present season. In the interior generally the crop, on old fields, will be something less than an average—new fields have a good crop.

A pair of brave young eagles taken upon one of the islands in our bay, have been presented to the Mechanic Association for preparation for their cabinet. They will make excellent specimens for preservation.

Gov Steele of New-Hampshire, has appointed the 11th day of November next to be thanksgiving day in that State.

The wheat crop in Illinois is said to be very poor, in many places it will not pay the expense of harvesting.

A company of 150 Norwegians passed through Troy, N York, on Saturday on their way to Wisconsin.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

Dear Sir—I perceive by a late Democrat published in your place, a paragraph alluding to the celebration of the Fourth at Levant—among other things stating that there were but "about fifty persons there," meaning, I suppose, Whigs. Now this is an absolute falsehood, like a good many other falsehoods which appears in that unbecoming print. It is true there were not so many Whigs there as was expected, on account of so many celebrations around on that day in the vicinity of Levant. At the dinner table more than 125 partook, all good and faithful whigs—and we wish that the editor of the Democrat, could have been there, to listen to some remarks and sentiments given by persons who were formerly leaders of the loco party—the tall grass in his short boots would have ceased growing.

Up River

There will be a public meeting of the Clay Club this evening at the City Hall at half past seven o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Hon. Elisha H Allen, and the Glee Club will sing several whig songs. A cordial invitation is extended to our citizens generally to be present. Let the whigs one and all attend the meeting.

Professional Notice.
THE subscriber would offer his services to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity, as a HOMOEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN AND DEUTIST.
Having spent thirteen years in the investigation and practice of the old system of medicine, and nearly four years in that of Homoeopathy; he feels prepared to judge of the comparative merits of the two systems, and would express his entire confidence in the great superiority of the Homoeopathic system, as being a more safe and efficacious practice, and applicable to all classes of disease for which medical means are serviceable.
He would particularly invite all patients laboring under chronic diseases, who have found the former practice ineffectual for their relief,—and all those who feel that there ought to be improvements in the principles of treating diseases, as well as in other departments of science; to give him a call.
Having devoted a portion of his time for twelve years past as a practical Dentist, would offer his services in this department also. For setting Teeth on pivot or gold plate—filling with pure gold or Foil—cleaning or Extracting. He would say that all work done by him, shall be done in a workman-like manner and prices reasonable. Residence and Office, Ohio-st. a few rods above Hammond street church.
